

Armor Impact Plus (AIP) Hurricane Windows for New-Construction Applications

OVERVIEW

If you're building a new home in an area where hurricanes are possible, have it done the right way now rather than having to replace your windows in a few years. Tell your builder you want Armor Impact Plus new-construction windows, not hurricane shutters or plywood covers. Your new home will be well protected against hurricane-strength winds and flying debris, plus you'll experience all the other excellent benefits they offer. These include exceptional thermal performance for lower home energy costs, UV protection to help prevent upholstery damage and fading, burglar protection and even a high level of sound deadening to give you a quieter, more peaceful home.
